Executive Summary:

The Embraer Praetor 600 market continues to strengthen in the second half of 2025, driven by limited inventory, strong buyer demand, and increasing aircraft values. With only 133 Praetor 600 aircraft operating worldwide and just two publicly listed for sale, the pre-owned market remains exceptionally competitive for buyers searching for private jets for sale or business jets for sale. Early-production Praetor 600 models are trading between $18M and $23M, while newer aircraft are commanding up to $29M due to OEM price increases and extended new delivery timelines stretching into 2028. As off-market activity accelerates and buyers seek alternatives to other aircraft such as the Gulfstream G550 for sale, Challenger 350 for sale, Phenom 300 for sale, and Citation Mustang for sale, the Embraer Praetor 600 continues to stand out as one of the most desirable midsize aircraft available today.

Key Takeaways:

- The Embraer Praetor 600 remains one of the most in-demand private jets for sale in the midsize aircraft market, with buyer activity increasing significantly throughout 2025.
- Only 1.5% of the global Praetor 600 fleet is currently publicly available for sale, creating intense competition among buyers and driving strong aircraft valuations.
- Pre-owned Praetor 600 pricing continues to rise, with early models selling between $18M and $23M and newer aircraft reaching as high as $29M due to long OEM delivery lead times.
- Off-market transactions and private sales activity are at record levels as buyers work closely with a private jet broker or private jet expert to secure aircraft before they reach the public market.

FAQ:What is driving demand for the Embraer Praetor 600 in 2025?

Demand for the Embraer Praetor 600 continues to grow due to its combination of range, performance, advanced technology, and limited aircraft availability. Buyers who cannot secure new production slots until 2028 are increasingly turning to the pre-owned market for faster acquisition opportunities.

How many Embraer Praetor 600 aircraft are currently available for sale?

Out of 133 Praetor 600 aircraft operating worldwide, only two aircraft are currently publicly listed for sale, and both already have pending deals. This limited supply has created a highly competitive environment for buyers searching for private jets for sale.

What are current Embraer Praetor 600 market values?

Early-production Embraer Praetor 600 aircraft built between 2019 and 2022 are currently valued between $18M and $23M, while newer 2023–2025 models are commanding between $25M and $29M depending on pedigree, total time, and equipment.

Why are many Embraer Praetor 600 sales happening off-market?

Many recent Praetor 600 transactions are occurring off-market because qualified buyers are actively working with private jet brokers and private jet experts to secure aircraft before they are publicly listed. The extremely low inventory environment has increased the importance of private transaction networks.

Is now a good time to sell an Embraer Praetor 600?

Current market conditions make this an attractive time for owners evaluating how to sell a private jet, particularly a high-demand aircraft like the Embraer Praetor 600. Strong buyer demand, limited inventory, and record-high valuations continue to create favorable conditions for sellers entering the market.
